

The law should not be weakened, although an individual does business with one of the telemarketers, that doesn't mean they want to be contacted by phone. If an individual does not want to be bothered by telemarketers, they need to honor that request. It's an invasion of privacy.